RSPB Bird seed is back!

See pages 2-9

Feed Seasonally, Feed Safely

As you may remember, we removed all our seeds and peanuts from sale at the end of April. This was to help reduce the spread of the deadly disease, trichomonosis, during the high-risk summer and autumn months.

Seeds and peanuts should only be offered to garden birds during winter and spring when natural food is more scarce - we suggest 1 November- 30 April.

New season, new menu

Our top quality seeds, seed mixes and peanuts are now back on sale, ready for November. We still recommend you empty, clean and disinfect your feeders at least once a week, and clear up any debris underneath, all year round. This will help reduce the spread of disease.

Our suet, mealworms and Flutter Butter® products are safe to feed all year round.

Food type	When to feed	How to feed	Food should be eaten within:
Suet	All year round	Suet hanging feeder or mesh feeder (Mesh, Suet)	Up to 7 days
Mealworms	All year round	Small amounts scattered or in a mealworm feeder (Mealworms)	1 day*
Seeds	1 November – 30 April	Seed hanging feeder (Seed, Nyjer)	1-2 days
Peanuts	1 November – 30 April	Mesh feeder (Mesh)	1-2 days

* If you have sprinkled mealworms on the ground, please clear them up by dusk.

What's new for 2026?

All our relaunched bird seed, seed mixes and peanuts will now come in entirely recyclable, paper packaging.

We've streamlined our pack sizes down to small, medium and large (not all products come in all three sizes).

We've introduced two new seed mixes – see page 9.

- ✔ Robin blend
- ✔ Big Garden Birdwatch blend

Favourites blend and Favourites blend extra have new, improved recipes. They no longer contain raisins, which means they are now safe to feed in gardens with dogs.

Robin blend

Three great reasons to choose RSPB

1) Nature-first farming

We always do everything we can to minimise the impact on wildlife. Most of our bird seed is grown on land that is actively managed for wildlife.

2) Quality ingredients

Our range contains the finest quality ingredients available, without the fillers you might find in cheaper bird food. We try to keep our prices low, but we won't compromise on quality or bird safety.

3) Helping wildlife

Profits from our sales contribute to the RSPB's conservation projects. You're feeding your garden birds but also helping wildlife everywhere.

Sunflower seeds

Packed with energy, sunflower seeds are loved by most garden birds. The nutritious inner contents are rich in protein and oil, which are vital to keeping birds healthy and full or energy.

RSPB bird food is the best it can possibly be. We choose only the best quality sunflower seeds, making sure they're grown as close to home as possible.

We recommend you only feed sunflower seeds in your garden during the cooler months of November - April.

Best seller

Premium sunflower hearts

As the name suggests, this is the heart of the seed with the husk already removed. We've done the hard work so birds don't waste their energy opening the sunflower seed to get to the nutritious heart inside.

- ✔ Packed full of protein and oil, essential for keeping birds healthy and full of energy.
- ✔ There's no mess for you.
- ✔ Feed from seed feeders.
- ✔ Feed from November-April.

Did you know?

Whole peanuts should always be fed from a rigid mesh peanut and pellet feeder. Then, only small pieces can be taken, avoiding the risk of young birds choking on big pieces.

See our peanut and pellet feeders on page 29.

Big Garden Birdwatch blend

Made with a range of carefully selected quality ingredients, our Big Garden Birdwatch Blend is sure to attract a wide variety of garden birds. There are no husks in this mix, making it quick and easy for birds to eat while helping to minimise mess and waste in your garden. Smaller birds can have difficulty cracking and consuming whole wheat grains, so this mix is formulated without whole wheat grains to help make it easier for them to digest and also helps provide the vital nutrients they need.

RSPB Easy-clean® seed feeders

Help us protect your garden birds by keeping your feeders clean. We have designed our feeders to be as easy to clean as possible. It's best to dismantle feeders for a thorough clean once a week, disposing of old food and scrubbing with a suitable disinfectant, such as Ark-Klens (see page 11), or a mild (5%) bleach solution. Always clean feeders outside while wearing waterproof gloves.

Why is cleaning your feeders so important?

Providing food and drink to your birds is a great way to lend them a helping hand. But it's also crucial you keep their feeding area clean to prevent the spread of infectious diseases.

All the feeders in our range have been assessed against safety criteria set by our conservation scientists. The feeders can all be fully dismantled for cleaning. To keep birds healthy, we need to prioritise hygiene.

Clean your feeder at least once a week. If practical, move it around the garden to prevent a build up of debris underneath. Clear up any debris that is dropped.

Feeding mealworms

We recommend using the Eco Beacon feeder, My Favourites feeder or the I love Robins pearl feeder for feeding mealworms. Robins, Blue Tits, Great Tits, Starlings, Nuthatches and Blackbirds are all big fans of mealworms.

Dried mealworms shown with the I Love Robins pearl feeder

Dried mealworms

Mealworms aren't really worms at all. They're the dried larvae of beetles, and they're absolutely packed with protein. If you're curious to try them but worried about what they smell like, when you open the pack, it's a bit like popcorn. They are a delicious treat that few birds can resist. They're especially loved by Robins, but will be eaten by all your garden birds. They can be rehydrated by soaking them in warm water for a few minutes.

Squirrels

Squirrels are persistent scavengers. They're expert climbers, and can easily jump on bird feeders from nearby branches and fences, but with the right feeder you can keep them away from your garden bird food. Squirrel Busters feeders are a great option as their feeding ports close under the extra weight of a squirrel. Alternatively, you could try a baffle cone on your feeder pole which deters them from above or below.

Squirrel baffle cone

This steel cone can deter squirrels from climbing up your feeding station. Position it just below your feeders.

- ✔ Suitable for use with our Premium feeding station and our Feeding station.
- ✔ Will fit any other pole with a 23mm or 25mm diameter. A metal adaptor makes the size adjustable.

RSPB Super suet pellets

Formerly known as Buggy nibbles and High energy sprinkles, our Super suet pellets are so popular. They're a great alternative to whole peanuts, and should be fed from a rigid mesh peanut and pellet feeder.

Super suet pellets - high energy

Formerly known as High energy sprinkles, these yummy morsels are beloved by many different garden birds. High energy sprinkles used to contain raisins, which meant they were unsuitable for gardens with dogs. The Super suet recipe remains the same, but we've replaced the raisins with elderberries which means it's now safe for dogs.

Super suet pellets - high energy are a delicious mix of Super suet (made with beef suet), elderberries, nyjer seed and sunflower hearts.

RSPB Nest boxes

All RSPB nest boxes have been designed to provide the right dimensions for safety and comfort for birds. Well-ventilated, with excellent insulation properties, they are cool in summer and warm in winter. Don't disturb the birds once they've found a home in your nest box. Our nest boxes have access for easy cleaning at the end of the nesting season.

Mix and match! Buy any two marked RSPB nest boxes on pages 32-37 and save £2

Swifts

Swifts prefer to nest in buildings, especially the eaves of houses and churches in cracks and crevices. With redevelopment and house improvements many of these old spaces are disappearing. Sadly, Swifts are on the Red list of Birds of Conservation Concern, declining by 62% between 1995 and 2021.

By installing a Swift nest box on your house or outbuilding you'll be creating a comfortable nesting site for these remarkable birds. Swifts are long-lived and often return year after year to the same nesting site, so once they've found you, you might have annual visitors.

Swifts are notoriously picky when it comes to nesting sites but we have worked closely with Action for Swifts to make sure our boxes conform to all their requirements. The boxes fit neatly under the eaves of your roof, and the gently sloping roofs make it difficult for predators to gain purchase.

For more information about where best to site your Swift nest box, please go to rspbshop.co.uk

Sparrow terrace nest box

Sociable House Sparrows love to nest close together in small colonies. They find crevices in buildings and holes in trees, but are also frequent occupiers of nest boxes. Putting up this terrace nest box will provide three separate chances to help these charming little birds.

Despite regularly being the most commonly-seen bird in our annual Big Garden Birdwatch, they are sadly in decline. Estimates suggest since 1970 we have lost about 30 million House Sparrows, putting them on the UK Red List of Birds of Conservation Concern.

You could help support three House Sparrow families to thrive with this three-in-one terrace, made from FSC® certified timber.

Bird baths

Water is very important to birds, both for drinking and for keeping clean. Birds are most vulnerable to predators when bathing, so position your bird bath at least two metres from cover. The water in bird baths should be changed daily and the baths cleaned weekly to protect your garden birds from infectious diseases. Clean with a suitable disinfectant or mild (5%) bleach solution, using a brush or scraper to remove tough dirt. Rinse well before refilling. Always clean bird baths outside while wearing waterproof gloves.

Water is life

Creating a pond, no matter how small, is one of the best things you can do for the wildlife in your garden. As well as providing a source of water for birds and mammals, creating an aquatic habitat will attract frogs, toads and newts, drawn by the insects that love to live in pond water. If you can situate your pond in a sunny spot you may have dragonflies and damselflies flitting about in summer.

Bees

Rather than living in colonies, the vast majority of our bees are solitary, with each female building her own nest. These non-aggressive, highly efficient pollinators are important to our ecosystems and economy, including the pollination of many of our wildflowers and fruit and vegetable crops.

Having a variety of pollinator-friendly plants in your garden from March to September is a great way to help, while providing a safe, cosy nesting site will also make a big difference.

Hedgehogs

Hedgehogs are a great help to gardeners, munching their way through slugs and snails. They like to move freely between gardens so replacing fences with hedges, or cutting a doorway through the bottom of your fence can really help. Set up a permanent Hedgehog home in a sheltered spot, away from areas you mow or strim.

You can also put food out, which is especially helpful when they are preparing to hibernate (October-December) or are emerging from hibernation (February-April).

Bats

There are 18 bat species in the UK. Even though these mini mammals are protected by law, their numbers have been in decline over the past century. A bat detector can pick up their different ultrasonic calls so you can identify which species are in your garden or local woods.

Remember - Bats are a schedule 1 protected species under the Wildlife & Countryside Act, therefore it is illegal for any member of the public to disturb a roost, handle or kill any bat. Bat boxes, therefore, must only be inspected by licensed bat workers. However, you can monitor your bat box without disturbing its occupants.

Conservation bat box

The Conservation bat box is exactly that - the ideal bat box for anyone with a strong interest in bats and wildlife conservation. Designed to accommodate multiple species, the bat box features twin vertical chambers, each with an angled cut-away front and ladder-style grooves for bats to easily climb into their chamber of choice. Conservation professionals and licensed bat workers can easily access the chambers for inspection via the handy hinged roof, which is secured by a removable screw. While the box has been designed with conservation professionals in mind, it's the perfect bat box for all nature lovers.

Fruits of the Forage

Fruits of the Forage work with market garden orchards and growers to collect the remnants of these orchards and hedgerows; long neglected but still producing fruit. This has allowed them to find heritage varieties that are more suited for preserves than as eating fruit. To help biodiversity, Fruits of the Forage are planting more of these heritage varieties in small projects across the UK.

Shopping the sustainable way

Wherever possible, we choose products that are made in the UK.

This limits the transportation involved and helps smaller, more local businesses thrive in difficult economic times. In some cases, however, the more sustainable option requires us to source from overseas. For example, the environmental benefits of using materials like recycled plastics and organic cotton (that may not be available in the UK) far outweigh the negatives of additional travel involved.

Sustainably-sourced products.

This indicates products that are made from sustainably-sourced paper or wood.

Products containing wood, paper and card from well-managed forests and other controlled sources. Independently certified in accordance with the rules of the Forest Stewardship Council® NQA-COC-003511. Only products that are identified as such in this catalogue are FSC® certified.

You're in control. If you'd like to change your choices at a later date, all you have to do is call us on 01767 693680 or go to rspb.org.uk/preferences. If you decide to stay in touch, we'll also keep you up to date with news about membership, products, offers and competitions.

Your details will be kept safe and secure, only used by us, or those who work for us, and will not be shared with anyone else. To understand our supporters better we combine and analyse the information you provide; with what we know about how you've helped us; and other external sources of data. This helps us to decide which communications will be of interest to you and save the resources we have available for our conservation work. We also use this information to run our charity's operations, e.g. if you place an order or make a donation, we'll need your details to process those.

If you would like to know more or understand your data protection rights, please take a look at our privacy policy at rspb.org.uk/legal-and-policy/privacy-policy
